

Dyck Family Lineage and Data
Jacob J. Dyck: Am Trakt To America
Revised August, 2018
by D. Frederick Dyck

When I began collecting information and data prior to writing Jacob J. Dyck: Am Trakt To America ("ATTA") I relied on the best existing sources at that time, 1996-2000. Since the book was published in 2001 I have developed new contacts for information and acquired access to , and copies of, original source material unavailable before the book was written. The advent and rise of the Internet has been both a boon and detriment to researching family history and genealogy. Information gleaned from the Internet must be verified by original source documentation. Likewise for the commercially available CDs such as the "Grandma" series for Mennonite genealogy.

Through historian Henry Schapansky of British Columbia, Canada, I gained access to the Prussian Census records for the years 1776 and 1789, and the Danzig Territory Census records for the years 1771 and 1793. These records list Mennonite heads of household, names and numbers of children and the land holdings in the Vistula Delta area of West Prussia. Additionally Henry provided me with copies of the original Tiegenhagen Mennonite Church of West Prussia records for the years 1795-1841. This is the Mennonite congregation of the Dyck ancestors of descendants of Jacob J. Dyck.

Access to these church records confirmed my suspicion that the early Dyck lineage and data I used in "ATTA", from unconfirmed sources, was incorrect. This suspicion started when I acquired copies of the books, A Pilgrim People, Volumes I and II, edited by Cornelius J. and Wilma Dyck. These books are a family history of the descendants of Johannes D. Dyck (1826-1898) famous within the Dyck family for his exploits in the United States as a "49er" in the California Gold Rush during the years 1848-1858. Johannes eventually returned to West Prussia and thence to Am Trakt, Russia where he became Oberschulze (Mayor) of the Am Trakt Mennonite settlement in Russia. Johannes was an uncle of Jacob J. Dyck, Jacob's father Jacob Dyck (1832-1882) was Johannes' brother so we have a common lineage beginning with Dirck/Dietrich Dyck (1796-1849). In volume one of A Pilgrim People Dietrich's parents are shown as Dirck/Dietrich Dyck (1736-1814) and Oelke (Ella) nee Suckau. This is confirmed in the Tiegenhagen Mennonite Church records. Thus the Dyck Family Lineage and Data in ("ATTA") is incorrect on pages 65 and 66 to V. Dietrich Dyck (1796-1849).

It may very well be that the Dycks from I. Paul Dyck (1670-1740), page 65 "ATTA", through IV. Jacob Dyck (1767-1843), page 66 "ATTA", are ancestors of/or related to Dietrich Dyck (1736-1814) and descendants, but it can't be confirmed with documentation at this time. Indeed, a recent article in "Mennonite Historian", a publication of The Mennonite Heritage Centre, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, about using DNA to trace Mennonite surnames stated that all people having the Dyck surname by blood derive from a single progenitor lost in the mists of time.

From V. Dietirch Dyck (1796-1849) through the children of VII. Jacob J. Dyck (1881-1954) the lineage in "ATTA" is correct and supported by documentation. However, new data has been collected along with some name additions. These changes are in the revised lineage and data.

Additional sources for the revised lineage and data are: (A) Henry Schapansky's book Mennonite Migrations (and the Old Colony). Anyone with ancestors in the Russian Mennonite colonies of Chortitza and Molotschna would do well to acquire a copy of this encyclopedic book.

(B) Ulrich Dueck's West Prussian Mennonite genealogy charts #1-454. These handwritten charts are on large format paper, approximately 11" X 17". Copies of the originals are in the archives of many Mennonite colleges and universities. I acquired mine from Bethel College Library and Archives, North Newton, Kansas.

"Der Berg" ended with the death of Fritz van Bergen killed in Russia, 1941, while serving with the German Army. A total of six volumes, 400+ pages is available on microfilm at the Mennonite Heritage Centre, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. Our direct descendant Dyck grandfathers are in bold type.

1. Dirck/Dietrich Dyck , born (b.) 1736, Poppau, West Prussia (W.P.), died (d.) 26 August 1814, age 78 years, Poppau, W.P. Married (m.) Oelke/Ella nee Suckau, widow Toews, before 1764. Dirck was likely married more than once. The Danzig Census of 1771 shows Dirck owning farmland in the amount of 1 Huben (41.5 acres), 8 Morgen (2.116 acres X 8 = 16.928 acres), total of 58.428 acres. There is a strong likelihood that Dirck had more children than those that are known by reliable records. The following are the known and possible children:

1.1 Katherina Dyck, baptised 1782, Tiegenhagen Mennonite Church, W.P., b. circa (ca.) 1764, Poppau, W.P.

1.2 Maria Dyck, baptised 1796, Tiegenhagen Mennonite Church, W.P., b. ca. 1778, Poppau, W.P.

Maria and Henry came to Canada in 1927 by separate routes and reunited in Saskatchewan. In February, 2001 this author received a handwritten chart of three generations of the descendants of Henry and Maria Dyck from their grandson Henry Dyck, b. 1936, of Glenbush/Rabbit Lake, Saskatchewan, Canada. It shows names and birth years only up to 1992. In July, 2018, I received a batch of old photographs from Willi Frese of Rodgau, Germany. I was able to identify one photograph as Heinrich and Maria Dyck and their three oldest children; Henry Dyck, b. 1897, Anna Dyck, b. 1899, Jacob Dyck, b. 1910. Photograph dates circa 1913 in Siberia. The family had moved to the Barnaul Mennonite settlement, Siberia, Russia, in 1908.
